

Updated: February 3, 2009

Province: Baghlan

Governor: Haji Mohammad Akbar Barakzai

Deputy Governor: Sheikh Baulat (Deceased as a result of February 2008 auto accident)

Provincial Police Chief: Abdul Rahman Sayedkhali

PRT Leadership: Hungary

Population Estimate: <sup>1</sup>	Urban: 146,000	Rural: 616,500
Area in Square Kilometers: 21,112 sq. km	Capital: Puli Khumri
Names of Districts:	Kahmard, Tala Wa Barfak, Khinjan, Dushi, Dahana-i-Ghori, Puli Khumri, Andarab, Nahrin, Baghlan, Baghlani Jadid, Burka, Khost Wa Firing
Composition of Population: <sup>2</sup>	Ethnic Groups: Tajik: 52% Pashtun: 20% Hazara: 15% Uzbek: 12% Tatar: 1%	Religious Groups: Sunni 85% Shi'a 15%
Income Generation	Major: Agriculture Animal Husbandry (Throughout Province)	Minor: Factory Work Private Business Manual Labor (In Pul-i-Khomri District)
Crops/Farming/Livestock:	Agriculture: Major: Wheat, Rice Secondary: Cotton, Potato, Fodder Tertiary: Consumer Vegetables Household: Farm Forestry, Fruits	Livestock: Dairy and Beef Cows Sheep (wool production) Poultry (in high elevation areas)
Literacy Rate Total: <sup>3</sup> 20%
Number of Educational Institutions: <sup>4</sup>	Schools: Total: 330 Primary: 70 Lower Secondary: 161 Higher Secondary: 77 Islamic: 19 Tech/Vocational: 2 University: 1	Colleges/Universities: 2 Baghlan University-Departments of Physics, Social Science and Literature in Pul-e-Khumri. Departments of Agriculture and Industry in Baghlan Teacher Training Center-located in Pul-e-Khumri
Number of Security Incidents, 2007: 8	January: 3 February: 0 March: 0 April: 2	May: 0 June: 0 July: 0 August: 0
Poppy (Opium) Cultivation: <sup>5</sup>	2006: 2,742 ha	2007: 671 ha
NGOs Active in Province:	UNHCR, FAO, WHO, IOM, UNOPS, UNICEF, ANBP, ACTED, AKF/AFDN, CONCERN, HALO TRUST, ICARDA, SCA,

<sup>1</sup> Central Statistics Office Afghanistan, 2005-2006 Population Statistics, available from <http://www.cso-af.net/cso/index.php?page=1&language=en> (accessed May 7, 2008).

<sup>2</sup> Afghan Information Management Services, Baghlan District Profiles, available from <http://www.aims.org.af/ssroots.aspx?seckeyt=378> (accessed July 30, 2008)

<sup>3</sup> Afghanistan Human Development Report 2007, United Nations Development Program, 2007, 164.

<sup>4</sup> Islamic Republic of Afghanistan, Ministry of Education: School Survey Summary Report, 2007, available from <http://www.moe.gov.af/> (accessed July 31, 2008)

<sup>5</sup> United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime: Afghanistan Opium Winter Rapid Assessment Survey, February 2008.

	BRAC, ABC, KRBP, CFA, AGEF, SWCRA, AACRP
PRT Activity: Activity has been low due to prioritization of more underdeveloped provinces	Total PRT Projects: Complete: 2 Ongoing: 2 / $16,860 Planned: 1 / $40,000 Total: 5 / $56,860	Other Aid Projects: Most projects have concentrated on one time disbursements of humanitarian aid, increasing the rule of law, and response to the large terrorist attack of November 2007.
Transportation: See Map Below	All Weather Primary: Route 2: Kabul - Pol-e-Khumri - Sher Khan Highway Route A76: Pol-e-Khumri - Kholm - Mazar-e-Sharif Highway  All Weather Secondary: Route 104: Dushi - Khamard Highway  Track: Khenjan - Andarab Road Pul-e-Khumri - Nahrin Road Baghlani Jadid - Burka - Khost-wa-Firing Road
Electricity:	The province has one power generation station. The majority of residents rely on public electricity. Access to electricity is much greater in the urban area where 65% of households have access to electricity, however totals approximately 4% with only half of these (2%) have access to public electricity. <sup>6</sup>	Estimated Population w/access: 17% <sup>7</sup>
Health Facilities: <sup>8</sup>	Hospitals: 1 in Pul-i-Khumri	Clinics, etc.: 46
Primary Sources of Drinking Water: <sup>9</sup>	Rivers, Streams, Canals, Springs provide non-potable water for the majority of the population. Most residents must walk a considerable distance to access safe drinking water.	Availability of Potable Water: 7 % Defined as: Piped water, public tap, public well, protected spring, well, or rain water.
Rivers: The Kunduz / Khanabad river passes through Kunduz, Baghlan and Takhar provinces and is the most important and vital source of water for the North East region of Afghanistan. It is fed primarily by snow-melt and is heavily utilized for agricultural irrigation. The river and its tributaries also serve as the primary source of drinking water for many communities and their livestock.
Significant Topographic Features	60% of the province is considered mountainous or semi-mountainous while 40% is classified as flat or semi-flat.

<sup>6</sup> MRRD Provincial Development Plan, Baghlan: Provincial Profile, 2005. Available at <http://www.mrrd.gov.af/nabdp/Provincial%20Profiles/Baghlan%20PDP%20Provincial%20profile.pdf> (accessed August 4, 2008)

<sup>7</sup> MRRD, NRVA Survey Results: Access to Electricity Report, 2005. Available at <http://www.mrrd.gov.af/aird/Access%20to%20Electricity%20report.pdf> (accessed July 21, 2008)

<sup>8</sup> USAID, Aghanistan: Baghlan Health Facilities Map, June 2005. Available at <http://www.aims.org.af/services/sectoral/health/provincial/english/baghlan.pdf> (accessed July 31, 2008)

<sup>9</sup> Afghanistan Human Development Report 2007, United Nations Development Program, 2007, 166. Available at <http://hdr.undp.org/en/reports/nationalreports/asiathepacific/afghanistan/nhdr2007.pdf> (accessed July 21, 2008)

Political Landscape:

Governor:

 Picture Forthcoming	Haji Mohammad Akbar Barakzai	Haji Mohammad Akbar Barakzai replaced Abdul Jabar Haqbeen as the governor of Baghlan on January 12, 2009. Haqbeen was appointed in January 2008 by Karzai as a result of widespread lawlessness, corruption, and instability in the province. Haji Mohammad Akbar Barakzai is the ninth governor of Baghlan since 2001. Haji Mohammad insisted fighting corruption and narcotics is the priority for his administration. He is a native of Baghlan and graduated from Baghlan's Agriculture school in 1989. He has served as the deputy administrator in the Ministry of Water and Power and also worked for one year in the Ministry of Mines. It is believed Haji Mohammad also has some specialized police training.
--	-------------------------------------	---

Deputy Governor:

 Picture Forthcoming	Sheikh Daulat	Sheikh Daulat served as head of the Relief Commission of the Afghan Interim Authority in Nahrin district during the April 2002 earthquake. He died February 17, 2008 as a result of an auto accident. No information on replacement available at this time.
--	----------------------	---

Chief of Police:

 Picture Forthcoming	Abdul Rahman Sayedkhili	Abdul Rahman Sayedkhili previously served as the Police Chief in Kabul but was re-assigned from Kabul to Baghlan in late 2006. He blames resurgent Taliban and local warlords for instability in province. Sayedkhili is credited with the arrest of one suspect in response to a November 2007 suicide bombing which killed 61 and wounded 95. He also led the operation resulting in the surrender of Bibi Aysha, Afghanistan's most prolific female "warlord." Afterwards he stated, "Because she surrendered, the government will forgive her for her rebellion. But if someone accuses her of any other crime, she will have to answer for it in court."<sup>10</sup>
--	--------------------------------	---

<sup>10</sup> Institute For War and Peace Reporting, Afghan Recovery Report: Female Afghan Outlaw Comes In From The Cold, 09July2008. Available at http://www.iwpr.net/?p=arr&s=f&o=345621&apc\_state=henh (accessed August 7, 2008)

Meshrano Jirga Members: <sup>11</sup>

Mohammad Yonus Shirin Agha Permanent Meshrano Jirga Member

Abdul Satar Transitional Meshrano Jirga Member

Wolesi Jirga Members: <sup>12</sup>

Qazi Habibullah Ramin

Mawlawi Abdul Haq

Helaluddeen

Mohammad Asim

Wakill Sayyad Agha

Ustad Najia Aimaq

Shukria Eisakhail

Provincial Council Members: <sup>13</sup>

Mawlawi Naqibullah Sajad

Mawlawi Sirajudin Seerat

Shukrullah

Abdul Ghayas

Mawlawi Zainul Abidin Alawi

Nooria Hameedi

Habib Rahman Jahid

Makhdoom Khalil Ahmad

<sup>11</sup> Wolesi Jirga & Provincial Council Elections Afghanistan 2005, available from <http://www.results.jemb.org/resultsMJ.asp?list=mj&offset=30> (accessed August 6, 2008)

<sup>12</sup> Wolesi Jirga & Provincial Council Elections Afghanistan 2005, available from <http://www.results.jemb.org/leadingCandidates.asp?ElectionID=1&ProvinceID=16> (accessed August 8, 2008)

<sup>13</sup> Wolesi Jirga & Provincial Council Elections Afghanistan 2005, available from <http://www.results.jemb.org/leadingCandidates.asp?ElectionID=2&pcv=2&ProvinceID=16&offset=0> (accessed August 8, 2008)

Fazluhaq Andarabi

Mohammad Hussain Khoshbeen

Abdul Shakoor Hasanzada

Doctor Muhaiuddin Paikan Haidari

Shukria Aseel

Habiba Ahmadi

Zarghona Stanakzai

Primary Political Parties:

Jamiat-e Islami (Islamic Society of Afghanistan):

Led by Burhanuddin Rabbani. It is predominately a Tajik political party which was active in the anti-Soviet jihad and a major political player in the Northern Alliance. Today Rabbani supports Karzai. Yunus Qanuni's Hezb-e Afghanistan Naween broke away from Jamiat-e Islami. The vast majority of Baghlan's District Chiefs are affiliated with Jamiat.

Shuria-e Nazar:

The party was founded by Ahmed Shah Masood in an effort to offset the power of Pashtun ethnic majority in Afghanistan. The Shuria-e-Nezar group was a key player in the Afghan Civil war that followed the Anti-Soviet Jihad. After the Taliban were removed from power in 2001, this same group re-emerged in Afghan politics and has continued to seek power for their former Northern Alliance patrons. Many Afghan observers believe that groups like Shuria-e Nazar serve to alienate the Pashtun majority and inadvertently undermine U.S. anti-terror and counterinsurgency efforts in Afghanistan.<sup>14</sup>

Hezb-e Wahdat (Islamic Unity Party of Afghanistan):

Hazara umbrella organization led by Mohammad Karim Khalili. Hezb-e Wahdat is an offshoot and successor to a party of the same name that was established in 1990 when several Iran-based, Shi'a jihadi parties merged. Khalili was chosen to lead the party after the Taliban killed Abdul Ali Mazari, the head of original Wahdat party, in 1995. Khalili's drift toward an alliance with the Taliban is generally blamed for his party's factional disintegration. Khalili has served as second vice president in President Karzai's government and wields particular influence among Hazaras in central Afghanistan. His party's success or failure might be viewed as an indicator of the degree to which Hazaras believe the current government reflects their aspirations.<sup>15</sup>

Islamic Unity Party of the People of Afghanistan (Hizb-e Wahdat-e Islami-ye Mardum-e Afghanistan):

Led by Mohammad Mohaqeq, The Islamic Unity Party of the People of Afghanistan, like Khalili's party, is an offshoot of the original Wahdat entity formed with the merger of Iran-based, Shi'a Jihadi groups. Mohaqeq was Wahdat's main representative in northern Afghanistan once the Taliban gained control of Kabul in 1996, becoming an ally of the United Front for the Salvation of Afghanistan (aka the Northern Alliance). In the post-Bonn Interim Administration, Mohaqeq served as a Karzai deputy and minister of planning. Mohaqeq placed third in the presidential ballot with 11.7 percent of the vote. Mohaqeq's party is expected to participate in a powerful opposition bloc in the National Assembly.<sup>16</sup>

---

<sup>14</sup> Afghan Meli Tolena: US and the Warlords in Afghanistan. Available at: <http://afghanmelitolena.com/html/warlords.html> (accessed July 28, 2008)

<sup>15</sup> Afghanistan Votes: Political Parties, Major Parties. Available at: <http://www.azadiradio.org/en/specials/elections/parties.asp> (accessed July 24, 2008)

<sup>16</sup> Ibid.

Hezb-e Islami Gulbuddin (HiG):

Mujahideen party active since the Soviet invasion; led by Gulbuddin Hekmatyar. HiG was famous for its shifting loyalties, and was the favorite party of Pakistan's ISI until the rise of the Taliban. Former members continue to wield considerable influence. Thus far, HiG has been actively opposed to US-led and Afghan national forces. Hekmatyar is a Kharoti Ghilzai and, therefore, less influential than the much more respected and powerful Khugianis, such as Haji Din Mohammad and Anwarul Haq Mohammad.<sup>17</sup> The HiG has been frequently accused of fomenting instability and lawlessness in Baghlan by its political and military rivals.

Human Terrain:

Tajiks: Tajiks are the second largest ethnic group in Afghanistan after the Pashtuns and comprise between 25-30% of the population. In Baghlan, Tajiks are the majority ethnic group and represent over 50% of the population. The Tajiks in Afghanistan tend to live in settled communities as opposed to a nomadic lifestyle. Pashtuns refer to them as Farsiwan, or speakers of Farsi, the lingua franca of Afghanistan (50% of Afghanistan speaks Farsi, as opposed to only 35% for Pashtu). Between the Tajiks and Pashtuns there has been significant animosity in recent years. Forming the backbone of the Northern Alliance, they also have a base in the nation of Tajikistan. They held out fiercely against the Taliban. Most Tajik are Sunni Muslims, but a few are Shi'a. Tajiks made up the majority of the Northern Alliance, both in terms of membership and leadership. Tribal ties have largely broken down among the Tajiks; therefore, social organization is defined primarily by geography. Despite their lack of cohesiveness the Tajiks are often brought together due to the perceived common threat posed by the Pashtuns.<sup>18</sup> Currently, Tajik warlords vie for control of illicit opium and arms transport with competing Uzbek, and Ismaili militias throughout Baghlan Province.

Pashtun: Pashtuns are located in a small pocket extending from north of Doshi through Pul-e Khumri and north through the City of Baghlan in Baghlan province. They are the majority group in Baghlan Jadid district in the northwestern corner of the province and comprise roughly 20% of the population of Baghlan as a whole. The largest single ethnicity of Afghanistan, the Pashtun, and in particular the largest tribe of Said, the Ghilzai, formed the backbone of the Taliban movement. Traditionally beholden to the moral code of Pashtunwali ("the way of the Pashtun"), they can easily be deeply offended by breaches of the code and carry the grudge for generations. Several Pashtun communities were grafted into Tajik-dominated Baghlan in the Nineteenth Century as part of the king's 'pashtunization' policy. In general, Pashtuns have been slow to adapt to post-Taliban Afghanistan. Jadid district, north of Pul-i-Khumri, is dominated by Pashtuns and was a Taliban stronghold as late as 2001. At the outset of OEF, the U.S. backed Northern Alliance advance towards Kabul resulted in reported atrocities against Pashtun communities in Jadid district. Additionally, Jadid District is still dominated by former Prime Minister Hekmatyar's fundamentalist Hizb-i-Islami party, which has resisted the Karzai government. Over the course of American involvement in Afghanistan, Pashtun enclaves in Baghlan have been more susceptible to infiltration by anti-government elements than Tajik and Uzbek dominated areas. Tajiks and Uzbeks in Baghlan blame Pashtun elements or members of the HiG for most of the security incidents which have taken place in the province since 2001. Finally, the continuous state of armed conflict which has characterized Afghanistan for the past three decades has resulted in frequent displacements and subsequent land disputes between the Tajik majority and Pashtun minority in Baghlan province. These disputes have yet to be successfully resolved and serve to fuel longstanding animosity between the Pashtun and their neighbors within Baghlan.<sup>19</sup>

Gilzai Pashtun: The largest single tribe of the Pashtun ethnicity, the Ghalji or Ghilzai, and in particular the Hotaki clan, formed the backbone of the early Taliban movement. Long resentful of the power the Duranni tribe (of which Karzai and Zahir Shah are members), the Ghilzai are fiercely independent and often view themselves, as the largest grouping of Pashtuns in the country and the rightful leaders of Afghanistan. Ghilzai Tree \(PDF\) Baghlan's Pashtun minority is primarily Gilzai.

---

<sup>17</sup> Chris Mason, Tora Bora Nizami Mahaz.

<sup>18</sup> 2007 CIA World Factbook, Central Intelligence Agency, <https://www.cia.gov/library/publications/the-world-factbook/geos/af.html> (accessed June 28, 2007).

<sup>19</sup> Royal United Services Institute for Defense and Security Studies: Baghlan Commentary, November 2007. Available at <http://www.rusi.org/research/militarysciences/defence/commentary/rss/ref:C47334FB2B6F7F/> (accessed August 7, 2008)

Hazara: In Baghlan, the Hazara comprise approximately 15% of the population. As a distinct minority ethnic and religious group within the population of Afghanistan; they have often been the target of discriminatory and violent repression. Most likely descended from the Mongols of Genghis Khan, (there is also a strong argument that they are of Eastern Turkic origin), the Hazara are noticeably different in physical appearance when compared to the Pashtun majority. In terms of religion, the vast majority of the Hazara are of the Shia Muslim faith, again in contrast to the Pashtuns who are Sunni Muslim. Due to these differences, “the Hazara have experienced discrimination at the hands of the Pashtun-dominated government throughout the history of modern Afghanistan.”<sup>20</sup> As the traditional underclass of Afghan society, Hazara were exploited and made to work as servants and laborers. As a result, there tends to be an anti-government and anti-Pashtun bias among the Hazara. In present day Afghanistan, the Hazara are divided geographically into two main groups: the Hazarajat Hazara and those who live outside the Hazarajat. The Hazarajat is located in the Hindu Kush Mountains in central Afghanistan and is “centered on Bamiyan province and include[s] areas of Ghor, Uruzgan, Wardak, and Ghazni province.”<sup>21</sup> The Hazara living outside of the Hazarajat live in and around Kabul, Herat, Mazar-e Sharif and Samangan province. Due to atrocities committed against them by the Taliban, the Hazara by and large are opposed to the Taliban. In August 1998, the Taliban massacred approximately 4,000 Hazara in Mazara-e Sharif; this massacre was followed by another the next month when the Taliban killed another 500 Hazara in Bamiyan. The Hezb-e Wahdat (Islamic Unity Party of Afghanistan) is an umbrella political organization which commands the support of large numbers of Hazara. The Hazara are also often at odds with the Kuchi population within the Hazarajat.

Uzbek: The Uzbek people of Afghanistan are found north of the Hindu Kush in Afghan Turkistan. In Afghanistan, they number approximately 1.6 million and comprise around 12% of the population of Baghlan Province. The presence of the Uzbek people in this region was facilitated by the frequent invasion of Central Asian Turks throughout history. Uzbeks are the most populous Turkish group in Afghanistan and are recognizable by their broad, flat faces and lighter skin when compared to the Pashtuns. They are historically farmers and stockmen, breeding the karakul sheep and an excellent type of Turkman horse. Their kinsmen reside in the central Asian republic of Uzbekistan. Many Uzbeks fled into northern Afghanistan in the 1920s to escape the suppression when the Soviet government was trying to stamp out their customs and Moslem religion.<sup>22</sup> Uzbek militias represent one piece of a perennially complicated security puzzle within the province.

Tatar: The Tatar people comprise roughly 1% of the population of Baghlan. They are classified as Turkic in origin and exist in significant concentrations in many former Soviet Republics. Their native tongue is Kazan Tatar (meaning archer). The physical appearance of the Tatar varies from blue-eyed blondes to that of typical Central Asian peoples. Generally, they have oval faces with little facial hair. Historically, the Tatar people have existed as an identifiable group since the tenth century. They have weathered the Mongol conquest of the thirteenth century and domination by the Russian empire and subsequent Soviet Union beginning in the sixteenth century. Today, the Tatar people are settled (as opposed to nomadic) and are generally peasants and merchants with no traditional tribal structure. The father is the legal head of the household in Tatar families and holds sole decision making authority within the family, which frequently includes up to three generations in one household. Most Tatar people are Sunni Hanafite Muslim. However, many pre-Islamic practices persist such as; Celebration of the "Rites of Spring", honoring of saints and holy places, belief in the power of "the evil eye", eating of pork, and not observing Islamic fasts.<sup>23</sup>

Security Landscape:

Warlords - The Disarmament of Illegally Armed Groups (DIAG) process is operated on a voluntary basis. Therefore, only a few commanders in the province have submitted small quantities of functional weapons. This

---

<sup>20</sup> US State Department Afghanistan Culture and Ethnic Studies, 2004.

<sup>21</sup> US State Department Afghanistan Culture and Ethnic Studies, 2004.

<sup>22</sup> The Afghan Network: Ethnic Group Profiles, The Turkish Groups of Afghanistan. Available at <http://www.afghan-network.net/Ethnic-Groups/uzbeks-turkmen.html> (accessed July 24, 2008)

<sup>23</sup> The Joshua Project, People-in-Country Profile: Afghanistan, Tatar. Available at <http://www.joshuaproject.net/peopctry.php?rog3=AF&rop3=109874> (accessed August 7, 2008)

reality amounts to a token gesture on the part of various warlords and should not be misinterpreted as evidence of anything other than business as usual in the Afghan hinterland. Efforts to target independent militias under the control of provincial commanders are ongoing but are likely to meet with limited success. Warlords continue to dominate public life and are involved in various criminal enterprises. Evidence exist that Baghlan and its associated highways serves as an area of safe transit for opium is from Badakhshan, destined for Central Asia weapons caches bound for insurgent held areas in southern Afghanistan. Uzbek, Tajik and Ismaili militias are locked in conflict for control of the strategic routes from Baghlan Province to Kabul, Herat and beyond. This ongoing competition has led to widespread lawlessness in the province. In 2007, Baghlan's provincial governor was replaced three times as a result of their inability or unwillingness to reign in warring factions within the province. Baghlan's local administration suffers from division, corruption, and factional infiltration, further complicating efforts to promote stability and security.<sup>24</sup> The customary alliances between the U.S. backed Karzai government and various northern warlords is a fundamental element which now serves to de-legitimize the Afghan government in provinces like Baghlan.

Currently, fighters allied with the Taliban, Hekmatyar's Hezb-i-Islami and Baghlan based criminal organizations pose the most serious threat to Baghlan's security. A rash of suicide bombings against foreign forces have been concentrated on the Kundiz-Baghlan highway and government centers since 2008.

Chronology of recent suicide bombings:

- January 29, 2009- A suicide bomber wounded seven people including a senior police official after he detonated his explosive-vest at the home of Baghlan district police chief, Afzal Khan.
- November 26, 2008- A suicide car bomber detonated near a German ISAF vehicle in Pul-i-Khumri, killing one Afghan civilian and wounding 12 others, including one German soldier. Taliban spokesmen later took responsibility for the attack.
- October 27- A man dressed in Afghan Army fatigues penetrated the Provincial police headquarters and detonated near a group of US soldiers tasked with advising the provincial police personnel, killing two US soldiers and a child. Three other soldiers were reportedly injured in the blast. Taliban spokesmen later claimed responsibility for the attack.
- August 6- Four German ISAF soldiers were wounded after a suicide bomber riding a motorbike detonated near their vehicle while traveling the Baghlan-Kunduz Highway.

Drugs: Poppy eradication efforts have met with few problems in many districts. Opium crops in Burka, Nahrein and Khonjan districts have been successfully eradicated. There are ongoing campaigns in Tale Va Barfak district. Andarab district remains un-engaged by the eradication program. Unfortunately, the geographical location of the Baghlan Province and the existence of a major north-south highway (Route 2) make it a major drug route from southern Afghanistan to Central Asia and Europe.<sup>25</sup> Sources have indicated that Bibi Aysha (aka The Kaftar) was allied with a recently escaped local Taliban commander, Mullah Dad-e Khuda, and another local warlord, Imam-e Sabz (the Green Imam) in the control of the drug trafficking routes within Baghlan Province as late as July 2008.

Taliban/Insurgent/Warlord Commanders in Baghlan:

Mullah Dad-e Khuda: Local Taliban commander noted for his escape from a prison in Bagram in the summer of 2008. He is linked with the control of drug trafficking routes within Baghlan and elsewhere.

Imam-e Sabz (The Green Imam): Reputed to be heavily involved in control of drug and arms trafficking routes in Baghlan.

---

<sup>24</sup> Royal United Services Institute for Defense and Security Studies: Baghlan Commentary, November 2007. Available at <http://www.rusi.org/research/militarysciences/defence/commentary/rss/ref:C47334FB2B6F7F/> (accessed August 7, 2008)

<sup>25</sup> MRRD Provincial Development Plan, Baghlan: Provincial Profile, 2005. Available at <http://www.mrrd.gov.af/nabdp/Provincial%20Profiles/Baghlan%20PDP%20Provincial%20profile.pdf> (accessed August 4, 2008)

Mullah Daud- Local insurgent commander believed to have been responsible for the November 2007 “Baghlan Massacre” in which a suicide bombing and subsequent machine gun fire from security officials killed approximately 68 people (mostly civilians) at a Baghlan sugar factory. Additionally, Daud and his men allegedly facilitated the deadly suicide bombing attack against Baghlans’ Provincial police headquarters in October 2008. Two US soldiers were killed and three others were wounded in that attack. ANA commandos and Coalition forces raided Mullah Daud’s residence on December 24, 2008 and apprehended Daud while he slept.

Mullah Hafizullah-A reputed Taliban commander from the De Salah district, Hafizullah turned himself in along with ten fighters to police on May 4, 2008 in response to the government’s national reconciliation program. Hafizullah and his men were outsourced by Taliban commander Mullah Dad-e-Khuda and paid $20 a month to launch attacks against Afghan police from a mountainous hideout in the De Salah district.<sup>26</sup>

Bibi Aysha (Kaftar, ie The Pigeon)- A female warlord who fought against the Soviets, the Taliban and the current government until she surrendered to Baghlan authorities in July 2008. Shortly before her surrender, Kaftar led a band of some 150 men in the Nahrin district; four of Kaftar’s surviving sons served as her key lieutenants. (Photo source: BBC. Bibi Aysha soon after her surrender)

Abdul “Awal”-A notorious bandit in Baghlan who preys upon travelers using the Kunduz-Baghlan highway.

Gul Zaman- He is suspected in a string of robberies, home invasions and highway robberies in the vicinity of the Baghlan-Nahrin Highway area. Zaman was reportedly killed during an Afghan police operation on June 1, 2008.<sup>27</sup>

Mullah Salam- Former Taliban era governor of Baghlan Province and leader of the Taliban’s Herat Corp. He surrendered to Afghan authorities in Herat on May 6, 2008 under the national reconciliation program and denounced violence.

---

<sup>26</sup> Sher Muhammad Jahish, “Taliban Group Surrenders in Baghlan,” Pajhwok Afghan News, May 4, 2008. Available at <http://www.pajhwok.com/viewstory.asp?lng=eng&id=54433> (accessed February 9, 2009)

<sup>27</sup> Akram Noorzai, Sher Muhammad Jahish, “Two policemen perish in Helmand attacks,” Pajhwok Afghan News, June 2, 2008. Available at <http://www.pajhwok.com/viewstory.asp?lng=eng&id=56011> (accessed February 10, 2009)

BAGHLAN DISTRICT MAP

REGIONAL INFRASTRUCTURE MAP

